VINCOTECH SPONSORS TSV HACHING FOR THE THIRD YEAR RUNNING

-- The Unterhaching-based company extends its support for the local volleyball team into the new season. --

Unterhaching, Germany, September 24, 2024. Vincotech, a provider of power modules for renewable energy, power supply and motion control applications based in Unterhaching, has extended its fruitful cooperation with TSV Haching München into the upcoming season. The company has been a main sponsor and an active supporter of the club for two years now.

Vincotech's backing for the local volleyball team echoes the company's philosophy. Committed to nurturing its ties to the community and championing the spirit of partnership at work and at play, Vincotech company sees its values reflected in this sport and in the aspirations of TSV Haching München's team of young international athletes.

Commenting on the company's motives, Vincotech CEO Eckart Seitter, said, "Volleyball – much like Vincotech – is all about teamwork, agility and speed. Our policy of pursuing long-term partnerships in business pays off; our enduring relationship with TSV Haching München has also been rewarding. Now we're delighted to see this journey continue. Rooting for the squad along with its passionate fans, we look forward to memorable moments on the court and another winning season in the German Bundesliga, the nation's premiere league."

As in previous years, there will be joint activities that will engage fans and bring both brands closer to the community. The team will appear in a new Vincotech video, showcasing their skills, teamwork, and dedication. The video shooting took place earlier in September and the collaboration will produce behind-the-scenes footage, motivational stories, and promotional videos that reflect the synergy between the team's athletic spirit and Vincotech's brand values. They will be shared across social media platforms, enhancing visibility and interaction between the volleyball team and the company's audience. Vincotech will also elevate the in-game experience for spectators by sponsoring activities during the home game in December. These activities will include an interactive fan zone, halftime contests, and exclusive giveaways.

Known for vetting suppliers for success, Vincotech applies the same high standards when choosing partners. TSV Haching München's commitment to excellence enables the club to compete at the highest professional level. Vincotech, a global company with deep local roots, has a winning record at home and abroad. More than merely a contractual extension, this renewed partnership attests to a shared vision of growth, community and success.

Vincotech is excited to continue this journey together and look forward to an exhilarating season ahead. We wish TSV Haching München great success on the court and are proud to be a part of their continued pursuit of excellence. Here's to a season filled with thrilling victories, unforgettable moments, and a growing connection between our brands, the team, and the incredible fans.
